First of all express appreciation of being allowed to give a talk at this meetup.

Always found it fun and interesting and figured time for me to contribute back to the community.

Was planning on live coding but time slot 20 minutes.

Too complex and time-consuming.

Chose sheets and couple demos in between.

The whole corona virus situation, losing job and all.

Gave me free time to explore yet another language.

Interested long time in Rust and could now dive deeper.

With background web-based platforms, seemed appropriate explore ways of enhancing node.

Also as it relates to IoT and latest developments
there.

Be patient, I am not an expert!

Contrived example for illustration purposes only.

External crate insulate you from being concerned about safety.
